

02-277

David T. Lonier/Glenna K. Long
1842 Commonwealth
Auburn Hills, Michigan 48326
248 373 9111

December 23, 2002

Kathleen Q. Abernathy, Commissioner
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, S.W.
Washington, D.D. 20554

Dear Ms. Abernathy,

With reference to:

The FCC's considering of loosening or doing away with regulations that limit the number of newspapers and radio and television outlets that a single company can own.

It's common knowledge that Americans are not currently receiving unbiased news reporting. Disinformation and misinformation are rampant in today's mass-marketed media, more often than not with a purpose to sway public opinion one way or another. I would think that any decision to allow even greater monopolistic control of the news media would be a decision for Congress and not a regulatory body such as the FCC. Where does the FCC get its authority to make what appears to be a legislative decision?

The main purpose of the FCC should be to insure that all forms of communication are encouraged to freely express the truth without attempting to control the public's response. Is it not absolutely necessary that our press be free, uncontrolled and independent if we are to preserve anything resembling a free society? Our law makers and the FCC need to be thinking about ways to gain the maximum diversity of views in news reporting with emphasis upon how to get the least slanted, factual truth to the American public. Our system of self-rule is critically dependent upon having a fully and truthfully informed public.

By allowing a fewer number of individuals to control a greater share of the media, you are violating not only your own purpose, but also the very foundation of our liberty. Please direct your efforts toward bringing more free enterprising independent individuals into the media business. By promoting diversity and independence and discouraging monopolistic control, you will be doing your job by participating in the true spirit of one of America's most sacred and essential rights :

"Freedom of the Press!"

Sincerely,
David T. Lonier
David T. Lonier

Glenna K. Long
Glenna K. Long

Confirmed

JAN 13 2003

Distribution Center

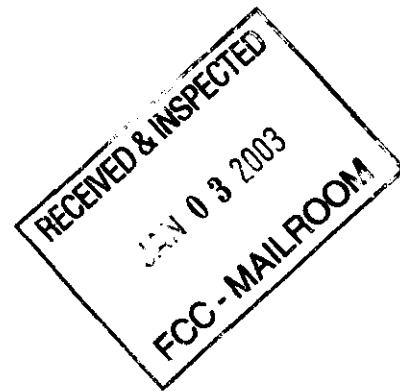

Copies to: FCC Commissioners: Abernathy, Adelstein, Copps and Martin,
U. S. Senators Carl Levin and Deborah Stabenow
U. S. Representatives Ron Paul, Dale Kildee and Joe Knowlledge
American Free Press, Idaho Observer, Nexus New Times, Media Bypass

02-277

David T. Lonier/Glenna K. Long
1842 Commonwealth
Auburn Hills, Michigan 48326
248 373 9111

December 23, 2002

Michael J. Copps, Commissioner
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, S.W.
Washington, D.D. 20554

Dear Mr. Copps,

With reference to:

The FCC's considering of loosening or doing away with regulations that limit the number of newspapers and radio and television outlets that a single company can own.

It's common knowledge that Americans are not currently receiving unbiased news reporting. Disinformation and misinformation are rampant in today's mass-marketed media, more often than not with a purpose to sway public opinion one way or another. I would think that any decision to allow even greater monopolistic control of the news media would be a decision for Congress and not a regulatory body such as the FCC. Where does the FCC get its authority to make what appears to be a legislative decision?

The main purpose of the FCC should be to insure that all forms of communication are encouraged to freely express the truth without attempting to control the public's response. Is it not absolutely necessary that our press be free, uncontrolled and independent if we are to preserve anything resembling a free society? Our law makers and the FCC need to be thinking about ways to gain the maximum diversity of views in news reporting with emphasis upon how to get the least slanted, factual truth to the American public. Our system of self-rule is critically dependent upon having a fully and truthfully informed public.

By allowing a fewer number of individuals to control a greater share of the media, you are violating not only your own purpose, but also the very foundation of our liberty. Please direct your efforts toward bringing more free enterprising independent individuals into the media business. By promoting diversity and independence and discouraging monopolistic control, you will be doing your job by participating in the true spirit of one of America's most sacred and essential rights :

"Freedom of the Press!"

Sincerely,
David T. Lonier
David T. Lonier

Glenna K. Long
Glenna K. Long

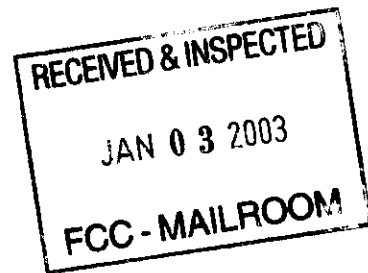

Copies to: FCC Commissioners: Abernathy, Adelstein, Powell and Martin,
U. S. Senators Carl Levin and Deborah Stabenow
U. S. Representatives Ron Paul, Dale Kildee and Joe Knowlton
American Free Press, Idaho Observer, Nexus New Times, Media Bypass

Confirmed
JAN 13 2003
Distribution Center

02-275

David T. Lonier/Glenna K. Long
1842 Commonwealth
Auburn Hills, Michigan 48326
248 373 9111

December 23, 2002

Kevin J. Martin, Commissioner
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, S.W.
Washington, D.D. 20554

Dear Mr. Martin,

Confirmed

JAN 13 2003

With reference to:

The FCC's considering of loosening or doing away with regulations that limit the number of newspapers and radio and television outlets that a single company can own.

Distribution Center

It's common knowledge that Americans are not currently receiving unbiased news reporting. Disinformation and misinformation are rampant in today's mass-marketed media, more often than not with a purpose to sway public opinion one way or another. I would think that any decision to allow even greater monopolistic control of the news media would be a decision for Congress and not a regulatory body such as the FCC. Where does the FCC get its authority to make what appears to be a legislative decision?

The main purpose of the FCC should be to insure that all forms of communication are encouraged to freely express the truth without attempting to control the public's response. Is it not absolutely necessary that our press be free, uncontrolled and independent if we are to preserve anything resembling a free society? Our law makers and the FCC need to be thinking about ways to gain the maximum diversity of views in news reporting with emphasis upon how to get the least slanted, factual truth to the American public. Our system of self-rule is critically dependent upon having a fully and truthfully informed public.

By allowing a fewer number of individuals to control a greater share of the media, you are violating not only your own purpose, but also the very foundation of our liberty. Please direct your efforts toward bringing more free enterprising independent individuals into the media business. By promoting diversity and independence and discouraging monopolistic control, you will be doing your job by participating in the true spirit of one of America's most sacred and essential rights :

"Freedom of the Press!"

Sincerely,

David T. Lonier
David T. Lonier

Glenna K. Long
Glenna K. Long

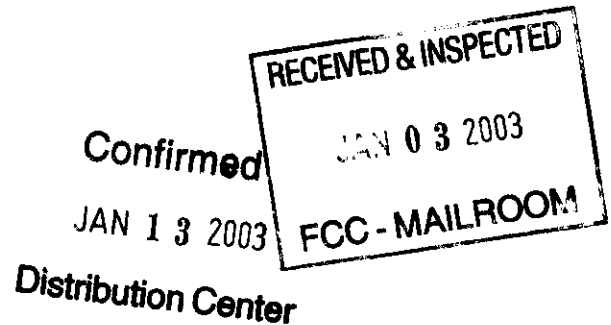

Copies to: FCC Commissioners: Abernathy, Adelstein, Powell and Copps
U. S. Senators Carl Levin and Deborah Stabenow
U. S. Representatives Ron Paul, Dale Kildee and Joe Knowlton
American Free Press, Idaho Observer, Nexus New Times, Media Bypass

03-277

David T. Lonier/Glenna K. Long
1842 Commonwealth
Auburn Hills, Michigan 48326
248 373 9111

December 23, 2002

Jonathan S. Adelstein, Commissioner
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, S.W.
Washington, D.D. 20554

Dear Mr. Adelstein,

With reference to:

The FCC's considering of loosening or doing away with regulations that limit the number of newspapers and radio and television outlets that a single company can own.

It's common knowledge that Americans are not currently receiving unbiased news reporting. Disinformation and misinformation are rampant in today's mass-marketed media, more often than not with a purpose to sway public opinion one way or another. I would think that any decision to allow even greater monopolistic control of the news media would be a decision for Congress and not a regulatory body such as the FCC. Where does the FCC get its authority to make what appears to be a legislative decision?

The main purpose of the FCC should be to insure that all forms of communication are encouraged to freely express the truth without attempting to control the public's response. Is it not absolutely necessary that our press be free, uncontrolled and independent if we are to preserve anything resembling a free society? Our law makers and the FCC need to be thinking about ways to gain the maximum diversity of views in news reporting with emphasis upon how to get the least slanted, factual truth to the American public. Our system of self-rule is critically dependent upon having a fully and truthfully informed public.

By allowing a fewer number of individuals to control a greater share of the media, you are violating not only your own purpose, but also the very foundation of our liberty. Please direct your efforts toward bringing more free enterprising independent individuals into the media business. By promoting diversity and independence and curtailing monopolistic control, you will be doing your job by participating in the true spirit of one of America's most sacred and essential rights :
"Freedom of the Press!"

Sincerely,

David T. Lonier

Glenna K. Long

Copies to: FCC Commissioners: Abernathy, Martin, Powell and Copps
U. S. Senators Carl Levin and Deborah Stabenow
U. S. Representatives Ron Paul, Dale Kildee and Joe Knowllenberg
American Free Press, Idaho Observer, Nexus New Times, Media Bypass